

I believe KLOVE is one of the last bastions of "safe" radio available - even news channels are no longer safe for family. My family and I listen to KLOVE continually. We are made aware of news, we are encouraged, we are apprised of local events in our community in which we can help out the community. KLOVE not only helps our local community, but does offer sites where we can help out those communities dealing with disasters such as in the case of the Florida hurricanes. It does not seem logical to displace KLOVE by a LPFM broadcaster whose intention probably is not for the "good" of the community, but just another for-profit org. KLOVE is unique in that it actually "serves" the communities in which it is located and to whom it broadcasts. What would you want someone listening to - a song/discussion on sex, drugs and the street life or a song about hope and that there is a way to change behaviors that are leading you down a path that kills your dreams? I work as a volunteer in the California prison system and I can verify that prisoners who can listen to "positive" music/information are much more likely to change their course in life than those who have no positive influence in their lives. Please allow KLOVE to keep its status on the current FM translator service. Thank you.
